- D. Coordinating with Adjoining exhibitors: The Promoter upon request will advise an exhibitor which other exhibitors are occupying adjacent booths as they may mutually coordinate their booth construction. By doing so, it is frequently possible to eliminate the need for more than one divider to finish the back of the walls to fit in with the adjoining constructions, and to generally cooperate in achieving an attractive exhibit.

Neither the Promoter nor their service contractor shall be held responsible for any interruption that may occur due to breakage of machinery apparatus or equipment failure in power lines, ect. Power is normally turned on one hour before official opening time each day and turned off at the closing hour.
